

Rev. Leroy Ford will be our substitute minister soon. In preparation for his sermon, he is asking the congregation to share some ideas. Here is Rev. Leroy's request:

Help! An old preacher is requesting your assistance... I am aware that, as a preacher, I sometimes (or often) have tried to answer questions that no one is asking. And I have been guilty of thinking that I am the only one who has heard and seen Biblical truth in secular works of art (books, movies, sculpture, paintings, poetry, music, etc.). Thus, I am seeking your help in self-atonement for these great sins (bad theology, I know). Would you be willing to share your doubts and questions... and points where you question God, by submitting your written responses Along with your perceptions of God speaking to you through the arts. Please place your offerings in the offering plate or give to ushers of the day. I cannot say that all will be addressed directly, but they will shape the conversation. Thank you.

Brecksville UCC Lenten Series

Listening to one another can help bridge the divide between people of different perspectives. With that in mind, our 2025 Lenten Series will engage in interfaith dialog. We will visit different interfaith sites in our area. We are not going there to proselytize; nor are they necessarily trying to convert us. Rather, we go to listen with mutual respect, that we might grow in understanding of our neighbors.

It is imperative that we can stay in contact with each participant. The schedule will vary. We will be meeting at different times, days and places. Staying in touch will be essential to coordinate and ensure that each participant knows what is next.

With that in mind, consider what kind of communication works best for you. Texts and emails will be best for some, while a traditional phone call might be best for others. Please tell us what works best for you.
